In Grandma's Day.

Women were straight and strong. They could walk or work side by side with the men of the family. They lived under healthier conditions; there was more simplicity and less strain. To-day it's different. The woman has all the care of the house and the wear of motherhood with duties superadded which were never dreamed of in Grandma's day. As a natural result she's worn out when she ought to be in the full beauty of mature womanhood. Women who would preserve their health and strength should guard the delicate womanly organs. When these are diseased the whole body suffers loss of strength and beauty. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases that weaken women. Inflammation, ulceration and female weakness promptly yield to the power of this great remedy.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness for about two years," writes Mrs. Emma Richardson, of Clark County, Ky. "I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and felt as well as I ever did."

LOGAN STAUTE UNVEILED.

Memory of the Great Soldier Honored by the Nation.

President McKinley Pays an Elegant Tribute to the Dead Hero—Oration by Senator Depew.

The heroic bronze equestrian statues of Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, which rests on an imposing bronze in Iowa circle, was unveiled at Washington on the 9th inst., in the presence of the President, the cabinet, the widow and relatives of the gallant soldier, many of his comrades in arms and a vast multitude of people. The sculptor, Franklin Simmons, who was knighted by King Humbert, of Italy, as a tribute to the artistic character of his work, was also present. Master George Tucker, grandson of the honored warrior, pulled the unveiling cord at 2:45 o'clock. The folds of the large American flag fell away and the dashing figure of "Black John" Logan, seated on his charger, stood revealed, amid a roar of cheering that echoed far down the intersecting streets and avenues. The President and the members of his cabinet had been escorted to the statue by a military parade under command of Col. Francis L. Guenther, of the 4th United States Artillery.

Mrs. John A. Logan and other relatives sat upon a platform at the base of the monument. Mrs. Logan has been quite ill with the grip recently but was able to be present. She was escorted by Col. Maxwell Woodhull, who was Gen. Logan's Adjutant General during the civil war. The President and his cabinet and other distinguished guests occupied a flag draped stand opposite this platform, while in another stand extending around the monument were other guests, including many of Gen. Logan's old comrades, representatives of John A. Logan Post G. A. R., of St. Louis; the Logan Republican Club of Brooklyn, and the Logan Club, of Philadelphia.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.
Following a brief introductory by Gen. Dodge, President McKinley delivered the following address:

Mr. Fellow Citizens:—It is a good token when patriots are honored and patriotism exalted. Monuments which express the nation's gratitude for great deeds inspire great deeds. The statue unveiled to-day proclaims our country's appreciation of one of her heroic sons, whose name is dear to the American people, the ideal soldier of two wars, the eminent Senator and commander, Gen. John A. Logan. Logan's career was unique. His distinction does not rest upon his military achievements alone. His services in the Legislature of his own State, in the National House of Representatives and in the Senate of the United States would have given him an equally conspicuous place in the annals of the country. He was great in the forum and in the field.

Some names instantly suggest a sentiment. That of Logan stands for exalted patriotism. This was the key of his success. Party politics was nothing to him when the Union was in danger. When the alternative came he was swift to dedicate his life and fortune to the party of Lincoln, because it stood for the indivisibility of the Union. How much he did to create and increase the sentiment of loyalty and patriotism among the people of his own State and throughout the nation can never be told. He stood with Douglas holding up the cause of the Union and offered up his own life as a cheerful sacrifice, it need be for its preservation.

In Washington, with most onerous and exacting senatorial duties resting upon him, he was devoted to the wants and necessities of his old comrades. His sympathy, his services and his limited purse were never denied them in their need. He was among the first commanders of the Grand Army of the Republic, and to him we are indebted for that beautiful service which on the 30th of May each year brings to the graves of the soldier dead, among whom he now rests in everlasting comradeship, the offerings of an affectionate people and the undying gratitude of a nation.

As a popular orator his voice has been heard in state and territory of the Union, always for his country and for the flag he loved.

The highest eulogy ever paid him was by his father. The latter in his will divided his property between his widow and children equally, except—and I quote from the will—"John Alexander, whose marked abilities are such that he can provide for himself and aid his mother if necessary. This provision is not made from want of affection, but because of unbounded confidence in his future success."

What remarkable tribute from father to son. That expression of faith was enough to quicken the young man's noblest aspirations and call out the best that was in him. And how worthily he vindicated the confidence. To have inherited, to have deserved an to have fulfilled that commendation from his father's love and faith were better than any inheritance of lands and tenements, stocks, and money. Beloved of father, wife and children, beloved of his comrades in war and in peace, and beloved of his country, his whole life realized his father's prophecy and its words would adorn any monument to his fame.

DEPEW'S TRIBUTE TO LOGAN.
The oration for the day was delivered by Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, junior United States Senator from New York. He spoke in part as follows:

A most difficult thing for any one is to escape from his surroundings of neighborhood, traditions, provincialisms and family. It is a more serious task. If a born leader has discovered the errors of opinion of himself and his neighbors and attempts to remain their leader by converting them to his new born ideas. There was no more unpromising section of the United States in which to rear a Union man and a Federal soldier than the ancient Egypt of Illinois. It had been settled by slaveholders, and its people, from good relationship sympathy and association, were in thorough accord with the slave holding states from which they had come. Young Logan became their idol, and he was their representative in Congress. The nearly unanimous vote by which he was sent to Washington illustrated the closeness and confidence between himself and this constituency. He was a tower of strength for the reactionary views and purposes of the slavery leaders in Congress, but underneath the sentiment and principles of the party to which he was devoted there brightly burned a spirit of liberty.

Slavery was intolerant of opposition and discussion. Lovejoy, of Illinois, Logan's fellow-member, was one of the bravest and ablest of the anti-slavery champions.

When he rose to speak to the House of Representatives there crowded about him an enraged mob of members which not only prevented his being heard, but threatened his life. It was this incident which opened the eyes of Logan to the great truth, subsequently expressed by Lincoln, that the Union could never endure half free and half slave. He instantly stepped upon the side of liberty, and so imperiously demanded a recognition of the rights of his colleague upon the floor of the House that his turbulent associates went back to their seats, and free speech was vindicated.

When hostilities began, a weaker man than Logan would have sided with his constituents in their sympathy with the South. Had he been with them an insurrection in Southern Illinois, barring the way of the Union army to Kentucky and Tennessee, would have been a frightful blow to the success of the national cause. It was a conflict in which, on the one side, he would apparently lose his home and his political future to enlist in a cause which, in that hour and atmosphere, seemed well-nigh hopeless; while on the other, in addition to the hardships and perils of war, would be ceaseless dangers from enemies both in front and rear.

The stirring news came to the House while in session that the battle of Ball Run was in progress. The soldiers of the Mexican war again heard the music of the national anthem and flew to the defense of the national flag. The dramatic scene was witnessed upon the battlefield of a civilian in a frock coat and top silk hat who had seized a musket from a wounded soldier, and by action and words and reckless daring was doing his best to stem the tide of defeat and turn the army back to meet the enemy. In that hour Logan's vision clearly saw the path of duty. He hastened home to his constituents to bring them around to the Union cause and to have them enlist in the Union army. He met soldiers and threatening mobs everywhere, but nothing could resist the fever of his eloquence, the inspiration of his presence and his cry, "Follow me to the field of the old flag and the Union. It is no longer the right and wrong of slavery; it is no longer the disputed question of the extension of that institution into the territories, but it is whether you will be with me for the preservation of the Union and of this last refuge and security of liberty and humanity." Character, courage and patriotism triumphed. He led his whole people out of the darkness of Egypt into the light of the promised land. Within a few weeks he was in the field with his regiment, and other regiments followed as often as the government called for volunteers.

In every community in our land, the leaders of public opinion and the dwellers in the homes of prosperity have come from the ranks. Among those successful Americans in many lines who have won and held the public eye and died mourned by all countrymen, there will live in the future in the history of the republic no nobler figure in peace and in war, in the pursuits of the citizen, and in work for the welfare of his fellow-citizens, than Gen. John A. Logan.

A Testimonial from Old England.
"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Savory of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." It is a great pleasure to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be able to publish testimonials of this character. They show that great good is being done, pain suffering relieved and valuable lives restored to health and happiness by this remedy. It is for sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

A Picturesque Character.
The St. Louis Globe-Democrat contains the following interesting editorial touching the life of General Cassius M. Clay:

"Back in 1835 a man then 25 years of age entered the Kentucky Legislature who immediately attracted the attention of the whole state by some speeches which he delivered and tracts which he wrote in favor of the emancipation of the slaves. The same man, four years later, in the Whig national convention at Harrisburg, in 1839, took a leading part in the advocacy of the claims of Henry Clay for the nomination for President in 1840. He began the publication of an anti-slavery paper in Kentucky in 1845; one year afterward he was a gallant officer in the war against Mexico; he joined the free soil party in 1852, became one of the pioneers in the Republican party, founded in 1854; was on the stump for Fremont and Lincoln, and subsequently held one or two posts under the government.

The man whose career began so far back in the century which has recently closed is Cassius M. Clay, who has just figured in a fight with a sheriff's posse in Kentucky. This particular representative of the Clay family, now in the ninety-first year of his age has been a familiar personage to several generations of Americans. As an anti-slavery man in a slave state he led a stormy life for many years. As an active and aggressive figure on the unpopular side in a state whose politics has always been violent, and which was peculiarly volcanic during his early days of prominence, he had passed through more "battles, sieges, fortunes," and has had more "disastrous chances, of moving accidents by flood and field, of hair-breadth," than any other American who has appeared during the lifetime of almost any person now living.

We are accustomed to think that though men may come and men may go the great parties run on forever. Here is a man, however, who was an earnest and intelligent observer of politics, and about twenty years of age, when the oldest of the great parties, the Democracy of to-day, reorganized and adopted its present name. The Whig party has been dead so many years that it is scarcely a memory to anybody now alive except an insignificant number of persons. Yet Clay was elected to the Kentucky Legislature in the year when that party was founded, and he was active in its councils during the years when it was a power in the state. The Free Soil party disappeared so long ago that its name sounds as remote as do the designations Whigs and Tories, which figured in the America of the colonial days. He was a member of it at the time when it was merged with the other anti-slavery elements into the Republican party, and was in public life a dozen years before it was founded. For forty years the Republican party was given the law to the country. This man who was one of its founders, was close to half-century age mark, and bore the scars, some of them not altogether metaphorical, of a hundred political battles before the Republican party was born. Generations have passed off the stage, scores of eminent public men have been born and have died, burning political issues have appeared and disappeared, more than one million square miles have been added to the territory of the United States and more than sixty millions have been added to its population, and the whole face of society throughout the world has changed since the time when Cassius M. Clay first became a public figure.

For coughs and colds there is no medicine so effective as BALLARD'S HORSEROUND SYRUP. It is the ideal remedy. Price, 25 cents and 50 cents. J. H. Williams.

POWER DEVELOPMENT.

Humble Beginning at Niagara and What Has Followed.

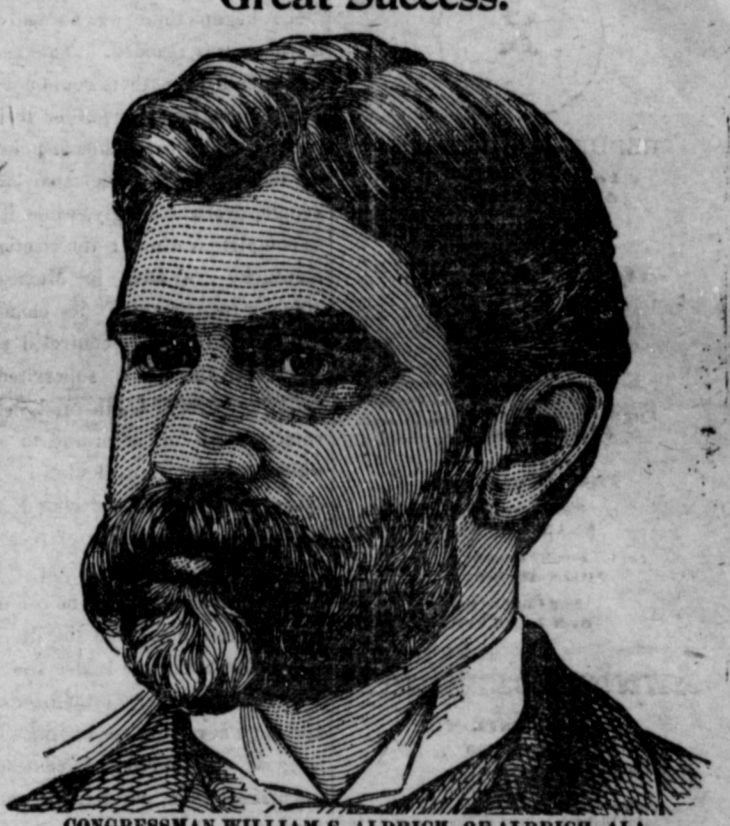

The earliest power development known to have been made at Niagara Falls was in 1750, when a small saw-mill was built on the mainland opposite Great Island by a party of French settlers. They were the pioneers in an industry which has grown to proportions unequalled at any other spot in the world. While it is highly probable that small amounts of power were utilized from that time on during succeeding years, there is no record of a substantial plan for the development of the river's force being made public until about the year 1840 when Gen. Peter B. Porter, and Augustus Porter devised a plan whereby a man might avail himself of a portion of the river's energy. In 1847 this plan was made public through a circular, and in general the plan outlined was very similar to that now used by the Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power and Manufacturing Company.

This company's central station is located at the water's edge down in the gorge, and will be one of the interesting places for visitors to the Pan-American Exposition to inspect the marvelous improvement of power at Niagara Falls. The water for the development of power is taken from the upper Niagara river nearly a mile above the falls, and is conducted through an open canal through the heart of the city to the edge of the high bank of the lower river. This canal has a width of from 70 to 100 feet, while its depth is from 10 to 14 feet. The water that flows through the canal passes to a basin 300 feet back from the high bank. From this point it flows through two connecting canals to a forebay at the edge of the three. It then enters penstocks, three in number, and plunges down to the turbines in the power house 200 feet below. One of the penstocks of this plant has a diameter of eight feet, while the other two are eleven feet in diameter, made of flange steel. One of these penstocks hugs the cliff in its descent to the power station, while the other two stand out in column form.

The power house at the water's edge is a stone building 60 by 150 feet in dimensions. It is built of stone excavated on the site, and in it is one of the clearest installations to be seen at the Falls. When Pan-American visitors inspect it, it will contain 14 turbines of from 2,000 to 3,000 horse power each. They are mounted on horizontal axes with electric generators coupled to each end. Visitors to this power house are much impressed by the fact that all parts of the wonderful installation are in plain view. They can see the canal that conducts the water from the river, and they look upon the great penstocks that carry it from the forebay to the turbines. Down in the power house all of the turbines and generators are on one floor in full view, and there is nothing left for the visitor to imagine. The head under which the wheels are operated is 210 feet, which is exceedingly high.

The Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power & Manufacturing Company acquired possession of the property in 1877, but at that time it was not considered that a head of water such as that in use in the station could be utilized. However, in the '80's hydraulic engineering made great strides, and makers of water wheels began to understand that there was a growing demand for CONGRESSMAN ALDRICH Uses Peruna in His Family With Very Great Success.

Congressman William F. Aldrich, of Alabama, in a recent letter to the Peruna Medicine Company, written from Washington, D.C., speaks of their great tonic and cathartic cure in the following words:

"This is to certify that Peruna, manufactured by The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, has been used in my family with success. It is a fine tonic and will build up a depleted system rapidly. I can recommend it to those who need a safe, reliable medicine for debility."

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio, for a free copy of "Summer Catarrh," which treats on the phases of catarrh peculiar to hot weather, and contains Dr. Hartman's experience of fifty years in the treatment of these diseases.

more efficient apparatus. Water wheels to withstand the awful pressure of Niagara's waters were needed. In 1892 a head of 120 feet was utilized on the company's property, and in '95 the present generating station was begun. The first section was completed with rapidity, and the second section was built. Now the third section, completing the plans for the station, has been finished. That this should have occurred in time for the inspection of visitors to the Pan-American Exposition is a piece of rare good luck, especially so when it is considered that the first power house of the Niagara Falls Power Company has also had its installation completed.

On the lands of the Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power & Manufacturing Company there are numerous industries utilizing the electrical, mechanical and hydraulic power, and the majority of them receive visitors. The mechanical power developed by this company is 300 horse power, the hydraulic power is 7,000 horse power, while the electric power is 19,037 horse power. Much of the electric force is transmitted to the top of the high bank and applied to the manufacture of aluminum, chloride of potash, bleaching powder and caustic soda in various factories there located.

Of the industrial features of Niagara Falls, the power house of the Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power & Manufacturing Company is one of the most important. ORRIN E. DUNLAP.

THE UNFORTUNATE TRAGEDY.

Our contemporary "round the corner," Mr. A. G. Benton, "apparently is terribly wrought up and incensed over the trial of Garnett Ripley and the testimony of Gov. Bradley and Judge Yost in that case. Now, really, we see no reason why this should be. The testimony of these gentlemen was not incriminating to Ripley. It was merely hearsay, and that was all. As to whether or not Taylor made the remarks attributed to him, is immaterial. It was common talk in Frankfort—and all over Kentucky—that something sensational would happen in the manner which characterized his christening. The lives of both Taylor and Goebel had been threatened by the rabid frenzied demon. So intense was the excitement and the anticipated danger, that Mr. Goebel was prevailed on to abstain from exposing himself and remain in his room. When he went to and from the Capitol building he was escorted by a guard, which fact our contemporary most assuredly knows to be true. All the testimony that has been adduced has been hearsay. All that large reward has accomplished has been of a very questionable character. In view of the history of that unfortunate tragedy, we do not understand why gentlemen should allow their passions to drive them into madness. The public mind has long since been formed as to this sad crisis, and the babblings of an irate partizan, whose own record is as damnable as the assassin's himself, will, in no wise, change it. THE REPUBLICAN condemned the assassin of Mr. Goebel in language unmistakable, and we desire it to be understood. No gentleman will condone assassination, it matters not who the unfortunate may be. We have ever condemned the infernal demon, the escaped lunatic from hell, who would hide under the veil of darkness to take the life of his fellow-man. The assassin of life is a useless factor in society and his extermination should be hastened. We have as little use for the assassin of character as the assassin of life. They are both society's deadliest foes. Really, we do not understand why the assassin of character—himself a villain, despised by all—should try, judge and condemn his illegals—the assassins of life—without a hearing.

Back of all Kentucky's troubles lie

the cause and origin of her woes. The contest, the manner in which it was conducted, the unseating of legally elected members of the Legislature and the seating of the defeated, for a purpose well defined; these things were unnatural, they could not be comprehended by the citizens of Kentucky, as being protected by law, as has been claimed. These things excited and infuriated all, and drove the unthought to madness. The result of a contest thus begun, led by a man who knew no fear, whose ambition fired his soul and spurred him on, was seen by all, unless a halt was called. Once begun there was no end until a climax was reached. The contest was unequalled, for there could not be a single moral reason given for its instigation. The party thus demonstrating that it had been defeated, by the people, overwhelmingly, while it had as complete control of the election in Kentucky "as Diaz in Mexico, or Menelik in Abyssinia," its champion and standard-bearer controlled every precinct in the State, supervised the voting of every booth and had the vote turned in according to order which had been miscalculated; from every stump he declared that he would be Governor of Kentucky, "the Republicans might vote, but their votes would not be counted." After these things came the drama, the assassination, the lawlessness. We deplore the manner of the campaign, and hope never to see another of its like; we denounced the contest and the assassination, one was the work of a revolutionist against the people, whose purpose was to destroy popular government and overthrow the people, while the other act was performed by a fanatic, a maddened lunatic, or a genius of the specie, "Satanica."

We have condemned the act of the assassin most severely and we have also condemned the cause—the contest—that inspired the assassination. And we regret that our contemporary has been so blinded and prejudiced that he has denounced the act itself, while he justified the cause, which prompted the act. If the Herald desires to be fair with us, and with its God—it has not committed that unpardonable sin and denounced Him, will it not condemn the cause of the act as well as the act itself? It is illogical to condemn the act and justify the cause. We confess our inability to understand why "A. G. Benton," himself, a self admitted assassin of character, should invoke the wrath of the gods upon his friend the assassin of human life.

OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MEN.

We addressed an article in our last issue, to the young men, pointing out to them the possibilities and opportunities offered them in the Republican party, and the marked difference between the principles of the two parties. Formerly the young men were advised to unite their fortunes with the Democratic party for popularity's sake, but that era passed with the repudiation of its former principles and platforms. But the same principles incorporated in the Republican platform half a century ago are still as valid as the teachings of that party.

The Republican party bases its claim, to the confidence of the American people, on principles, which it has been practicing since its birth, and not on hypothetical theories, based on the dissatisfaction of the discontented elements of all parties. The principles and theories of Income Tax and the free trade fallacies of the Democratic party have been abandoned. The original position which that party took on expansion has been forsaken and its honorable past repudiated. These are facts known of all, accepted by all and denied by none, not even by the rabid partizan. Such a course has opened the eyes of many honest and honorable men and caused them to consider these facts above numerated, and when thoroughly considered they have laid aside their prejudices and fond memories of long associations and identified themselves with the Republican party. This has been the course of old men, men of reason and judgment, then young men, why not in your youthful days, reason the case for yourselves. Ask yourselves the question, what inducement does the Democratic party offer? Has it not abandoned every principle it ever held sacred?

In Ohio county, we see no inducement for the old or the young. Those who have been most loyal and true to the party and the party's honor, those who have fought the party's battles, both in season and out, those whose fealty and loyalty is unquestioned, those whose years of service are numbered by the years of their natural existence, have been turned down and cast aside, while the positions of honor and trust have been accorded others, who have cursed Democracy's gods in shame, insulted and abused the principles of its fathers and choked and stamped its very life out, while their cumbrous feet on its neck, bowing it down in ignominious defeat and disgrace. Young men, have you considered, that the Democratic party had before it recently, a man, who was as fearless, brave and true a patriot, as loyal a citizen, as willing servant as Democracy affords, asking the highest office in the gift of the county, that that position was denied him and given another of a household of acknowledged hostility? Young man, if this record is repulsive and revolting to your good sense of right and justice and you desire a palatial home where principles are held sacred, thirty-five hundred Ohio county Republicans will greet you welcome on the 5th of November.

The announcement of Mr. L. Berry Loney for Magistrate in the Rockport Magisterial District, is due to the earnest solicitation of his friends and party associates. He has consented to become a candidate because he feels it his duty to do so, for there is no inducement from a financial standpoint. But since the office is one of great importance, the necessity for good, substantial men becomes more imperative. The county's business should be entrusted to a fiscal court composed of men of financial ability and good judgment, that its business may be guarded in the same manner that marks the affairs and progress of successful business men. Along with their financial and executive ability, they should have the necessary qualifications to understand the law that they may fairly and impartially meet out justice to all. In this category of qualified gentlemen, we unhesitatingly place Mr. Loney and recommend him to the Republicans of the Rockport Magisterial District as a man deserving of their trust and confidence.

Esq. W. P. RENDLER, of the Pleasant precinct, has been urged, by his many friends of the Centertown Magisterial District, to announce himself a candidate for Magistrate in that district. Under the pressure of friends, he has consented to allow his name to be used. Centertown has many worthy gentlemen that would honor the cause, but owing to his extensive friendship and popularity, his nomination, virtually means election. Esq. Rendar is one of the best informed and best posted men in the county; is a good business man, a man of financial and executive ability, such a man as the county demands and with his business entrusted to a court composed of such gentlemen, a new era would dawn upon it. Esq. Rendar is a life-long Republican and deserves any position to which the party may elevate him. No mistake will be made in Centertown giving him the nomination by a unanimous voice of the people.

McLean county should elect her full Republican ticket this year. The convention which nominated the ticket was indeed imposing, it was indicative of success, and we sincerely trust that a perfect organization will be formed in every precinct. The opportunity has come for McLean to repudiate Hickman and remove the odium heaped upon her fair name by this modern legislative reformer.

Is less than two years when the people shall have returned to reason from the fastnesses of passion, they will look back upon Kentucky of today and two years ago, in perfect abhorrence, and the mystery of the assassination of William Goebel, will not have abated in the least.

The old roster that was betrayed in '97 by a false god, and led to the scaffold in defeat and shame, still refuses to grace the Democratic ticket. His reason we do not know, that it is fact his own friends admit.

The Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, N. Y., promises to be a brilliant success. Its visitors will be able to visit the great Niagara Falls, which within itself is worth the expense of the trip.

Just how long that $100,000 will last we can't tell, a very short time would be a safe prediction.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional medicine. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed, it swells and closes off the passage, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of the tube, deafness is permanent. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Tough on the Legislature.
A young gentleman of this county was engaged to a charming young girl in Tennessee, and just before the holidays he went to pay her a visit. The day for the wedding was drawing near and groom elect thought he detected some kind of a sad expression in the eyes of the fair young thing, and right he was. She approached him one evening just as the Western sun was setting in the Western part of the West, and looking up into his tender red eyes she said: "William, I have a secret and my conscience shames me until I have to tell you. It is this: Willie, my father served a term in the Tennessee State Prison. It was no fault of mine Willie, and do you still love me?" "Glad you brought up this confession business," said Willie. "I, too, have a secret" and then he looked sad. "Mabel," Willie's white lips faltered, "my father served a term in the Kentucky Legislature," and Mabel, the mean thing, shook him, and he's now at home retailing shoes and cussing.—Vine Grove Herald.

We give no rewards. An offer of this kind is the means of deception. Resolutions.

Adopted by the Beaver Dam Baptist Sunday School:
WHEREAS, It has seemed good to the Almighty Disposer of events to remove from our midst, our late, worthy and esteemed member of our Sabbath School, Miss Beulah Coots, and
WHEREAS, The intimate relations long held by the deceased with the members of the Sabbath School, render it proper that we should place up on record our appreciation of her services as a member and her merits as a woman. Therefore resolved
1st. That we deplore the loss of Miss Beulah with deep feeling of regret, softened only by the confident hope that her spirit is with those who having fought the good fight here, are enjoying perfect happiness in a better world.

Whereas, God in his wisdom has seen fit to call from our midst our beloved sister, who departed this life, February 14, 1901.

OVERWORK
You know all about it. The rush, the worry, the exhaustion. You go about with a great weight resting upon you. You can't throw off this feeling. You are a slave to your work. Sleep fails, and you are on the verge of nervous exhaustion. What is to be done? Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For fifty years it has been lifting up the discouraged, giving rest to the overworked, and bringing refreshing sleep to the depressed. No other Sarsaparilla approaches it. In age and in cures, "Ayer's" is "the leader of them all." It was old before other Sarsaparillas were born. It is a built all together. Ayer's Pills aid the action of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. They cure biliousness. 25 cts. a box.
"I have used Ayer's medicines for more than 40 years and have said from the very start that you made the best medicine in the world. I am sure your Sarsaparilla saved my life when I first took it 40 years ago. I am now past 70 and am never without your medicines."

band has lost a good wife, the children a kind and loving mother and the church a welcomed member. She united with Cane Run church in 1893 and has lived a Christian ever since.
Resolved, 3. As a child of God she bore her sufferings with patience, her last hour was blessed with the peaceful presence of the comforting Spirit of God, her last words were, "Dear Lord, take me, I am ready to go." I am going home to meet my mother." She leaves a husband and six children to mourn her loss.
Resolved, 4. That we beseech the bereft family to submit to bow to the divine will of God, knowing He doeth all things well.

Resolved, 5. That a copy of these proceedings be spread on the Cane Run church book and a copy be sent to the county papers for publication.

Blind Tiger Murders an Officer.

Danville, Ky., April 15.—Tohn Crum was found dead in a blind tiger this morning with two bullet holes through his heart. He was a member of the police force, and the best on it in every way. The finding of the body was reported by a negro named Reuben Quinn, who assisted in running the joint, and he was allowed to go while the friends he had notified went to take care of the remains. Later it was discovered that Quinn himself was the murderer, and that the officer surprised him in the joint and undertook to arrest him when the murder occurred. The officers do not believe that Quinn has left the city, and are searching for him everywhere. If he is captured it is almost certain that he will be lynched.

For Kicking a Blind Child.

Owensboro, Ky., April 16.—G. D. Thompson, a barely watchman who kicked a little blind boy for dancing to the music of a cellophone on the excursion steamer Island Queen at the wharf here yesterday afternoon, was fined $100 in Police Court to-day, and in default of payment will serve out the fine on the city rock pile.—Inquirer.

Taken this month keeps you well all summer. Greatest spring tonic known. Rocky Mountain Tea, made by Madison Medicine Co. 35c. Ask your druggists.

Strange Disease.

John Pennington, a farmer of the Sorgho neighborhood, was in the city Monday and reported the existence of a new stock epidemic which is killing his stock at a rapid rate. Out of seven head, five have died within the past few days and the others are affected with the same symptoms. When taken with the disease their eyes turned a greenish color, they froth at the mouth, have convulsions and quickly stifle.

Mr. Pennington can ascribe no reason for the malady. He is an experienced stock raiser and is puzzled to know the cause. Divers theories are advanced by his neighbors, some seeming to think it is caused by eating rye, and various other reasons, none of which he will accept. He came to see Collector Franks regarding the matter, to ascertain if there is a provision by the United States government for such cases, but learned that action must be taken through the state commissioner of agriculture. He will take immediate steps to have the disease investigated.—Owensboro Messenger.

Loss of Appetite.

A person that has lost appetite has lost something besides—vitality, vigor, tone.
The way to recover appetite and all that goes with it is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion and makes eating a pleasure.
Thousands take it for spring loss of appetite and every body says there's nothing else so good as Hood's.

Bates in the Woods.

Contagious Blood Poison.

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured!—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—Uho Bogate Uho, driven from the surface to break out again, and to their sorrow and mortification find those nearest and dearest to them have been infected by this loathsome disease, for no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. Often a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted The Sin of the Parents. Life, for it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards. Cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; it is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.
Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued; it not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.

RIGHT UP TO DATE.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

These are days of records and of the breaking of records. Benson's Plaster, for quickness of action and thoroughness of cure, has no records to beat except its own. Benson's Plaster, always the best, always the leader, is to-day better than ever. It sticks to the skin but never sticks in its tracks. It marches on.

The people not only want to be cured but cured quickly—and Benson's Plaster does it. Coughs, colds, hunchback, asthma, bronchitis, liver and kidney complaints, and other ills approachable by an external remedy, yield to Benson's plaster as to heat. Neither Belladonna, Strengthening or Capicum plasters are to be compared with Benson's. People who have once tested the merits of Benson's Plaster have no use for any other external remedy.

More than 6,000 physicians and druggists (and a thousand times as many non-professional persons) have called Benson's Plaster one of the few (if) home remedies that can be trusted.

Fifty-five highest awards have been made to it in competition with the best known plasters of Europe and America. Better proof of its merits is inconceivable. Be sure to get the genuine.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States, on receipt of 25c. each. Beasley & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N.Y.

McLEAN COUNTY

Comes to the Front With a Magnificent Display of Enthusiasm.

The Republicans of McLean county met in mass convention at Calhoun on the 6th inst., and nominated the following ticket for county offices: Representative, G. W. Adams; County Judge, B. F. Landrum; County Clerk, Emmet McEwen; County Attorney, W. G. Newton; Sheriff, Charlie Taylor; School Superintendent, Will Grest; Jailor, Dick Thompson; Assessor, B. Barnes; Surveyor, J. A. Rowe.

The convention was the largest crowd that Calhoun has seen in a long while. The court room could hardly seat half the immense throng of enthusiastic followers of truth, and the convention adjourned to meet in the court yard. Every step of the convention was marked by harmony and unity of purpose. The nominations were made amid applause and with a hurrah. The men nominated are excellent men, nominated especially for their popularity and standing in their community. They are such men as make elections sure.

McLean should be in the Republican column and with a thorough organization, the ticket nominated will have the honor of redeeming the county from the stench and odium which Hickman enshrined it with, during that outrageous preceding at Frankfort.

Jarnagin Calls "Benton" Down.

MR. EDITOR:—I notice in the Hartford Herald of the 17th inst., where I am quoted as saying, "I am disgusted with latter day politics etc., and I am going to leave the political arena." I wish to say in the beginning that I do not think the Herald's editor intended to do me an injustice, but he has unthoughtfully misrepresented our conversation. I did not say "I am disgusted with latter day politics" etc. I could have no reason for saying such, no one indorses the fight that has been made in Kentucky more than myself. I am not disgusted with the plans of campaign, nor of the party leaders in the State or county. Nor do I aim to "scooch" politics altogether as he states. The time shall never come so long as the Republican party contends for right and I am able to lend assistance, that I will not be found doing all I can for its success.

Now the substance of the conversation and the facts leading to it were simply this: I went to the Herald of the 17th inst. in answer to a question, said, "I am studying law, I aim to follow that profession and not try to become a politician, it does not suit me to spend my life in politics." I think I can do better in my chosen field than to be constantly asking for an office. I trust the Herald's editor will place me right before the public.

I ask the readers to pardon me for making this so long as it is all personal and of not much interest at all.

Respectfully,
R. C. JARNAGIN,
Beaver Dam, Ky., April 17, 1901

Hello! Here We Are!

The peach trees and plum trees are almost in full bloom, and there is every prospect for a fine crop of both. There is an old superstition that when they bloom in the "dark of the moon" they will escape the frost, and that is the case this year. The apple trees have not shown their color yet, and it will be some time before they do.

There has been no weather to injure the blooms of any kind of fruit and the prospects are therefore very flattering all along the line.

Cruel Treatment.

Mrs. Sarah Hamilton, of the Whitesville precinct, has filed suit for divorce against her husband, Abe Hamilton, says the Owensboro Inquirer. They were married July 16, 1877, and lived together until last Monday, when he whipped her and she left home. She says that he has been a drunkard for a year, and that he is letting his estate go to waste. They have eight children, six girls and two boys, and she asks for the custody of all of them, declaring that he is cruel to them, and is not a fit person to have charge of them. He owns 300 acres of land, part of which is in Ohio county, worth $3,000, and much other property. An attachment was granted her to the amount of $2,000. She asks for absolute divorce and alimony.

Kicked by a Horse.

The little four year old boy of Mr. T. F. Ball, Centertown, was kicked by a horse Wednesday morning and seriously, if not dangerously hurt. The older brother had gone to the barn to harness a horse and the little fellow followed, as children of ten do. There was a loose horse in the barnyard and the little boy walked up behind him and threw a stick at the horse, which kicked the little fellow striking him over the left eye, terribly bruising the flesh and crushing the skull bone so as to leave the brain visible. Drs. Ford, of this city, Chapman and Tichenor, of Centertown were summoned and dressed the wound. The doctors express themselves as having a very dangerous case.

Decoration Day at Render.

The citizens of Render, McHenry, Taylor Mines and Nichols paid Preston Morton Post G. A. R. quite a compliment by sending in a petition signed by over 400 names, inviting them to hold their Decoration services in their locality on May 4, 1901. The Post has accepted the invitation and the services will be held at Render school house, near the graveyard, where 54 of the old soldiers are buried. Committees have been appointed to see that the program is carried out in full on this occasion.

We have a meeting on Saturday, May 4, and invite all sons of veterans to meet us at the Court House at 2 o'clock p. m. so that we can arrange for them to take part in our Decoration day services. Plugs will be handed out on May 4 for all the grave yards where soldiers are buried. All comrades are expected to be present at this meeting.

Blood.

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.

There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.

This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It sets the whole body going again—man woman and child.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample. Its agreeable taste will surprise you. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409-415 Pearl Street, New York. 50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

"A Gentle Wind of Western Birth"

Tells no sweeter story to humanity than the announcement that the health-giver and health-bringer, Hood's Sarsaparilla, tells of the birth of an era of good health. It is the one reliable specific for the cure of all blood, stomach and liver troubles.

are most earnestly requested to avail themselves of this opportunity and send a large delegation to attend a part if not all of these services. No Sunday School teacher or pupil can afford to miss such a rare treat. Each of the three services at Hartford and Beaver Dam will follow a regular program made out for Institute work and it is very necessary that every one who can, will attend all three services.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery of 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits." For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

About the New Spring Styles.

That something called "Style" is a bugbear to most men—their mind is occupied with details of their own work and they are not supposed to be fully posted on what to wear or what not to wear. It's not their business. With us, however, it's different. It's a part of our business to know—part of our business to impart that knowledge to you when you come to buy. When you come in, don't be afraid to ask our advice regarding correct styles in garments—that's what we're here for—we know how to dress you properly, and you may depend upon our judgment. Spring Styles are now ready.
